

Changes Group 27

We did not deviate that much from our original design, however there were a few issues we had which (given the time constraint) resulted in slight alterations. The first was in the mountain view, we said we would have a drop down box for each of the different height statistics, however we have implemented it here as a popup. Although this is not what we originally designed, it still displays the data in a clear way so is fine.

The second deviation was in the map search bar, in the lofi prototype, the search bar had a magnifying icon on the left, and a location button on the right. We thought this may be confusing since the magnifying glass wasn't functional, and so decided to make the search icon a button instead, moving it to next to the search bar.